 This text goes beyond traditional leadership or supervision books and assumes that teachers and principals must work as colleagues to improve teaching and learning in schools. This is the first text of its kind, written for principals and other instructional leaders to help them understand current theories of teaching and learning as well as the practical curriculum applications of these perspectives. "The greatest strength of the Woolfolk Hoy text is the focus on instruction and developing leaders devoted to nurturing learner-centered campuses and classrooms." "Dr. Steve Jenkins -- University of Texas of the Permian Basin" "This text provides my students with a base of knowledge regarding exemplary instructional strategies as well as an illustration of what constitutes good teaching." "Robert J. Supku -- Rider University" New to this edition: New Feature--A Principal's Perspective describes the experiences of an actual principal in dealing with a problem of practice related to the ideas and concepts of that particular chapter. New Point/Counterpoints have been added to each chapter to illustrate the complexity of the issues facing instructional leaders. New Research--over 200 new studies and analyses enrich the examination of the crucial topics in this text. New Coverage of NCLB--the impact of recent legislation is discussed throughout the text. New Standards Matrix connects chapter content with the ISLLC standards for easy reference. As new media mature, the changes they bring to writing in college are many and suggest implications not only for the tools of writing, but also for the contexts, personae, and conventions of writing. An especially visible change has been the increase of visual elements—from typographic flexibility to the easy use and manipulation of color and images. Another would be in the scenes of writing—web sites, presentation "slides," email, online conferencing and coursework, even help files, all reflect non-traditional venues that new media have brought to writing. By one logic, we must reconsider traditional views even of what counts as writing; a database, for example, could be a new form of written work. The authors of Writing New Media bring these ideas and the changes they imply for writing instruction to the audience of rhetoric/composition scholars. Their aim is to expand the college writing teacher's understanding of new media and to help teachers prepare students to write effectively with new media beyond the classroom. Each chapter in the volume includes a lengthy discussion of rhetorical and technological background, and then follows with classroom-tested assignments from the authors' own teaching.
