Horizons, New York, N.Y. The last 28 pages of the script are peopled by characters from The Simpsons television program. Bart Simpson is the son of Homer Simpson, whose mendacious boss is Mr. Burns.

Trans Scripts Part I: The Women Theatre Communications Group Seminar paper from the year 2014 in the subject English Language and Literature Studies - Literature, grade: 2,0, University of Cologne (Englisches Seminar), course: The London Stage, language: English, abstract: A main objective of The Simpsons series seems to be to take every day issues and world events as a part of its stories and to deal with them in a satirical way. While it also concerns itself with apparently banal issues like popular movies or bands, war, politics or nuclear power do not make an exception in the series' content. Mick Broderick points out, that "while many episodes ostensibly do not touch on nuclear themes, the ever-present influence and immanence of the atomic age pervades The Simpsons like a thematic half-life whose motifs contaminate the multi-layered, intertextual narratives of each episode, often as satire." At this background, Anne Washburn's decision to take The Simpsons, of all things, as the one part of popular culture that survives inside the people's memories throughout a nuclear apocalypse, seems even more peculiar and ironic. But that's just what happens in Washburn's "Mr. Burns - A post- electric play". The electric grid is destroyed and people have to adapt to a world without telephones, television, electric stoves or radiators. They have to revert to older ways of engagement, like storytelling, but instead of higher literature they reminisce about parts of popular culture everyone remembers. The following paper therefore will analyse Anne Washburn's play in regard to the way popular culture is represented in her post- apocalyptic world. Why is it important and why is The Simpsons

Washburn's main contemporary popular culture in the play?

And, moreover, in which ways does the change throughout it?

MR. BURNS AND OTHER PLAYS

Mr Burns A Post-electric Play

The purpose of theater, like magic, like religion
. . . is to inspire cleansing awe. What makes good drama?

And why does drama matter in an age that is awash in information and entertainment?

David Mamet, one of our greatest living playwrights, tackles these questions with bracing directness and aphoristic authority. He believes that the tendency to dramatize is essential to human nature, that we create drama out of everything from today's weather to next year's elections. But the highest expression of this drive remains the theater. With a cultural range that encompasses Shakespeare, Brecht, and Ibsen, Death of a Salesman and Bad Day at Black Rock, Mamet shows us how to distinguish true drama from its false variants. He considers the impossibly difficult progression between one act and the next and the mysterious function of the soliloquy. The result, in Three Uses of the Knife, is an electrifying treatise on the playwright's art that is also a strikingly original work of moral and aesthetic philosophy.

Toward the end of Mr. Burns, Bart is confronted by death and reaches within himself to find the hope and courage necessary to defeat his biggest fear, Mr. Burns. This newfound courage propels Bart to fight back and lead the citizens of Springfield to safety. Many times throughout the production process, I felt like Bart at this moment. Circumstances arose and I had to choose to face my fears or step aside and be defeated. As Bart realizes in the play, courage comes from a genuine need to protect and defend those you are leading. Throughout this process, I faced many fears and like Bart, found inspiration from my team and colleagues. Courage became essential in leading this production through the many fears and doubts of the unknown. During my graduate studies, I have been committed to developing a more assertive approach to my leadership style. I have challenged myself to trust my intuition and take courageous risks to create a safe space without fear of judgment and where trust and respect are given freely. I have learned the importance of building trusting and respectful relationships that support and inspire my team to do their best work. By being more assertive, I demonstrate to the collaborative team and the company that I am looking out for their needs. Moving forward I will continue to challenge myself to courageously follow my intuition and be assertive while supporting my collaborators and the production.

"Ladies and gentlemen, welcome to tech. Around you, a company of fourteen is engaged in a very peculiar -- and particularly impossible -- task of making a new play. You'll have a seat next to the sound designer as he mixes cues. You'll eavesdrop on backstage gossip as it happens over headset. You'll watch the director struggle to contain the uncontainable. Anne Washburn (Mr. Burns) took notes during her tech rehearsals over the years. 10 out of 12 is a wry and absorbing look at how work forms us and deforms us."-- page 4 of cover.

"This is a fresh take on the American road story, filled with people and ideas we rarely get

A troubled teenager and her estranged mother—an undocumented Mexican immigrant on the verge of deportation—embark on a road trip and strive to mend their frayed relationship along the way. Combined with the musical talent of Erin McKeown, Hudes artfully crafts a story of the barriers and the bonds of family, while also addressing the complexities of immigration in today's America.

Seinfeld? What's the best high school show ever made? Why did Moonlighting really fall apart? Was the Arrested Development Netflix season brilliant or terrible? For twenty years-since they shared a TV column at Tony Soprano's hometown newspaper-critics Alan Sepinwall and Matt Zoller Seitz have been debating these questions and many more, but it all ultimately boils down to this: What's the greatest TV show ever? That debate reaches an epic conclusion in TV (THE BOOK). Sepinwall and Seitz have identified and ranked the 100 greatest scripted shows in American TV history. Using a complex, obsessively all-encompassing scoring system, they've created a Pantheon of top TV shows, each accompanied by essays delving into what made these shows great. From vintage classics like The Twilight Zone and I Love Lucy to modern masterpieces like Mad Men and Friday Night Lights, from huge hits like All in the Family and ER to short-lived favorites like Firefly and Freaks and Geeks, TV (THE BOOK) will bring the triumphs of the small screen together in one amazing compendium. Sepinwall and Seitz's argument has ended. Now it's time for yours to begin!

Their real purpose is never quite clear, but they continue on, searching for the monstrous. Part satire, part sacred rite, Annie Baker's play The Antipodes asks what value stories have for a world in crisis. Written and directed by Steven Cosson with songs by Michael Friedman, (I am) Nobody's Lunch is a dark ride through the landscape of American public culture. This latest creation from the Obie-winning company The Civilians asks the thorny question-how do we know what we know when everyone in power seems to be lying? Is it possible to know what's really going on in the world when information is manipulated to serve particular interests? Does anyone really care? Turning extensive interviews into a mercurial cabaret-play, a versatile cast inhabits an eccentric cast of characters, all taken from real life. (I am) Nobody's Lunch opened at the Assembly Rooms at the Edinburgh Fringe festival in August 2006, transferring to the Soho Theatre, London in September. Published alongside a second short play, Gone Missing.
