This collection of thirteen essays brings together Italian and American scholars to present a cooperative analysis of the Italian short story, beginning in the fourteenth century with Giovanni Boccaccio and arriving at the twentieth century with Alberto Moravia and Anna Maria Ortese. Throughout the book, the contributors carefully and intentionally unpack and explain the development of the short story genre and demonstrate the breadth of themes – cultural, historical and linguistic – detailed in these narratives. Dedicated to a genre “devoted to lightness and flexibility, as well as quickness, exactitude, visibility and multiplicity,” this collection paints a careful and exacting picture of an important part of both Italian and literary history.

INDIAN NOCTURNE

Feltrinelli Editore

Una Toscana segreta e stregata, una stazione della Riviera, una Lisbona baudelairiana, un rallye di automobili d'epoca, un persecutore implacabile dall'aria distinta in un treno da Bombay a Madras. I racconti di Tabucchi sembrano, a una prima lettura, avventure esistenziali, ritratti di viaggiatori ironici e disperati. Poi l'apparente sintonia fra il reale e il narrato diventa all'improvviso turbamento e sconcerto. Come degli obliqui "racconti filosofici", le storie di Tabucchi si trasformano in una riflessione intorno al caso e alla scelta, un tentativo di osservare gli interstizi che attraversano il tessuto dell'esistenza. Nelle pagine di Tabucchi aleggia un'inquietudine metafisica che evoca la migliore tradizione italiana da Piero della Francesca a De Chirico, a Pirandello. Ma questo scrittore, che ama i personaggi eccentrici e le vite sbagliate, carica i suoi enigmi di una luce strana; i suoi geroglifici "polizieschi" sono le ricerche di un investigatore che non cerca risposte, ma un messaggio, un segnale, un'apparizione.

Leonardi analyses and evaluates the problems that may arise from ideology-driven shifts in the translation process as a result of gender differences. First she offers a theoretical background, draws up an analytic checklist of linguistic tools and states the main hypothesis, then she tests the hypothesis with four empirical analyses.

Italian Literature since 1900 in English Translation 1929-2016 Troubador Publishing Ltd

'Misunderstandings, uncertainties, belated understandings, useless remorse, treacherous memories, stupid and irredeemable mistakes, all these irresistibly fascinate me, ' the Italian writer Antonio Tabucchi remarks. 'Life is by nature ambiguous and distributes ambiguities among all of us.' This side of life is reflected in these eleven stories. Is it choice, fate, accident, or even, occasionally, a kind of magic that plays the decisive role in the protagonists' lives?

Questo libro raccoglie quarantacinque contributi di studenti ed ex studenti della facoltà di giurisprudenza dell'università di Trento, cui è stato dato un unico "faro", quello del titolo: "L'università che vorremmo". In modo personale ognuno di loro ha affrontato un tema che aveva a cuore. I contenuti sono poi stati organizzati in sei sezioni: "Università e valori"; "Comunità"; "Università e crescita"; "Studenti"; "Università e transizioni"; "Relazioni". Leggerlo può dare uno spaccato dell'università esistente e dell'università che potrebbe esistere, visto dagli occhi di chi la vive o l'ha vissuta, mostrando sia conferme che aspettative tradite ed individuando i problemi più "sentiti". Leggerlo, d'altra parte, può anche mostrare come l'università debba recuperare spontaneità e curiosità, consultando in modo libero le persone che la frequentano. Ci sono cosa da dire, ci sono persone che sono disponibili a dirle, e lo sanno fare. Il libro è rivolto a studenti, docenti, membri degli organi decisori, ai diversi livelli, e a chi abbia interesse per le tematiche universitarie e per le opinioni di studenti ed ex studenti. Ma è rivolto anche a quegli studenti delle scuole superiori che sono curiosi di sapere di più sull'università e sulle sue dinamiche, viste da prospettive personali fondate sull'esperienza.

By Antonio Tabucchi, one of the most renowned voices in European literature and the foremost Italian writer of his generation, The Woman of Porto Pim is made up of enchanting, hallucinatory fragments that take place on the Azores Islands off the coast of Portugal. Told by a visiting Italian writer unearthing legends, relics and histories of the inhabitants, the tales shed light on a local restaurant proprietress's impossible love with an Azorean fisherman during WWII, a dazzling whaling expedition of eras past, shipwrecks both metaphorical and real, and a playful look at humankind from the perspective of a whale. Adapting fiction into film is, as author Cristina Della Coletta asserts, a transformative encounter that takes place not just across media but across different cultures. In this book, Della Coletta explores what it means when the translation of fiction into film involves writers, directors, and audiences who belong to national, historical, and cultural formations different from that of the adapted work. In particular, Della Coletta examines narratives and films belonging to Italian, North American, French, and Argentine cultures. These include Luchino Visconti's adaptation of James M. Cain's The Postman Always Rings Twice, Federico Fellini's version of Edgar Allan Poe's story "Never Bet the Devil Your Head," Alain Corneau's film based on Antonio Tabucchi's Notturmo indiano, and Bernardo Bertolucci's take on Jorge Luis Borges's "Tema del traidor y del héroe." In her framework for analyzing these cross-cultural film adaptations, Della Coletta borrows from the philosophical hermeneutics of Hans-Georg Gadamer and calls for a "hermeneutics of estrangement," a practice of mediation and adaptation that defines cultures, nations, selfhoods, and their aesthetic achievements in terms of their transformative encounters. Stories travel to unexpected and interesting places when adapted into film by people of diverse cultures. While the intended meaning of the author may not be perfectly reproduced, it still holds, Della Coletta argues, an equally valid and important intellectual claim upon its interpreters. With a firm grasp on the latest developments in adaptation theory, Della Coletta invites scholars of media studies, cultural history, comparative literature, and adaptation studies to deepen their understanding of this critical encounter between texts, writers, readers, and cultural movements.

Hypochondria, insomnia, restlessness, and yearning are the lame muses of these brief pages. I would have liked to call them Extravaganzas . . . because many of them wander about in a strange outside that has no inside, like drifting splinters. . . . Alien to any orbit, I have the impression they navigate in familiar spaces whose geometry nevertheless remains a mystery; let's say domestic thickets: the interstitial zones of our daily having to be, or bumps on the surface of existence . . . In them, in the form of quasi-stories, are the murmurings and mutterings that have accompanied and still accompany me: outbursts, moods, little ecstasies, real or presumed emotions, grudges, and regrets. —Antonio Tabucchi on The Flying Creatures of Fra Angelico From the Trade Paperback edition.

The end of World War II led to increased interest in multicultural concerns and a flourishing of literary and artistic endeavors. It was also a time of decolonization and the emergence of new nations and cultures clamoring for recognition and respect. The political circumstances following World War II exposed many people to other cultures. This reference discusses the experiences of writers active since 1945 who were shaped by cultures other than their own. Included are alphabetically arranged entries for more than 100 writers, including Chinua Achebe, W.H. Auden, Mircea Eliade, Jamaica Kincaid, Salman Rushdie, and Elie Wiesel. The profiled authors either lived in another culture voluntarily or were wrenched from one culture into another. Each entry includes a brief biography, a discussion of multicultural themes in the writer's works, a review of criticism, and primary and secondary bibliographies. The volume closes with a selected, general bibliography. The reference demonstrates the value of multicultural experiences in the lives of writers around the world and fosters a greater appreciation of cultural diversity.
