His past is a nightmare. And the woman of his dreams just walked into it...Hellhound shifter Fleance thought he'd escaped his evil former alpha for good - and the life of crime and misery he was forced to live. But when he loses control of his hellhound, Fleance realizes the past isn't as far behind him as he'd hoped. If he wants to protect his new pack, he needs to track down Angus Parker and make him pay for what he did to Fleance and the others. Even if he needs to travel to the other side of the world to do it. The last thing he thought he'd find there was his fated mate. Suddenly, his pack isn't the only thing he needs to protect. New Zealand sheep shifter Sheena can't wait to escape her rural life and overbearing shifter family. She's sick of being treated like she can't take care of herself just because her inner sheep is so tiny and adorable. Except... it's kind of... true? Her sheep isn't just tiny, it also has a major habit of wandering into danger. Even when she's in human form. So it's almost a relief when her fated mate turns up to save her from the fiery death she accidentally ran straight into (whoops) and the terrifying hellhound shifter who wanted to make her its new chew toy. Fleance is a dream come true. Except for the little matter of his previous alpha biting her. Sheep shifters can't be turned into hellhounds... right?

December in Lancaster County Proper Romance Contemporary

A few short stories that include parodies of classic Christmas characters. Maybe they can find their way among the ranks of stories that fuel the Christmas spirit. Other than that they're just some crap a crazy guy wrote. Have fun and make sure to reimagine Christmas every year to keep it fresh. Unless you're old and you don't care. Chances are no one will ever care about these stories anyways. That's not being negative that's just reality.

Alternatively my optimism has a point that at least I laughed at these stories. I had a good time destroying Christmas by elevating these stories to be fit for a mature audience. Who knows maybe you'll end up telling them at the bar or on Christmas morning to have a laugh. Either way I feel like they're just a funny dumpster fire.
