Throughout the past two years, Trans World Airlines, Midway Airlines, and R.H. Macy Company, as well as over 46,000 other corporations, have filed petitions for relief under Chapter 11 of the United States Bankruptcy Code. Of the firms that have filed Chapter 11 reorganization petitions, over eighty percent will never reorganize successfully and will not avoid a subsequent conversion to a Chapter 7 liquidation proceeding. The effects of these "misfilings" are enormous. Most fundamentally, an attempted reorganization, when liquidation is the more efficient solution, can unnecessarily increase the overall costs of bankruptcy significantly. In response to these costs, some scholars have called for the repeal of Chapter 11, while others have advocated merely a new approach to Chapter 11 reorganization proceedings. Still others defend the present Chapter 11 system. This Article contends that reducing bankruptcy costs requires a revised Chapter 11 reorganization structure. This Article posits a two-part revision to the present Chapter 11 system: (1) replacing corporate managers acting as debtors in possession with trustees; and (2) establishing a methodology to guide these new decision makers in determining whether a reorganization or a liquidation is the proper course of action in a given case.

Section 1: Client and Planner Attitudes, Values and Biases Section 1 includes Chapters 1, 2 and 3, and provides an overview of client and planner attitudes, values, and biases. This section discusses the importance of understanding how a client's psychology, background, learning style and values can all impact the financial planning process. It also discusses the importance of the financial planner framing advice in a way that accounts for all those psychological characteristics, leading to a more effective client-planner relationship and a higher probability of success. Research has shown that when clients can see that financial planning recommendations are demonstrably connected to their personal values and goals, they are much more likely to act on those recommendations and achieve success.

Chapter 1: Framing Advice in Light of Client's Risk Tolerance (Swarn Chatterjee and Dave Yeske) Chapter 2: Developing a Productive Client-planner Relationship That Addresses the Psychological Elements of Financial Planning (Megan McCoy and Neal Van Zutphen) Chapter 3: Identifying and Responding to Client Values and Goals (Megan McCoy and Meghaan Lurtz) Section 2: Behavioral Finance Section 2 includes Chapters 4 and 5, and introduces key concepts from the area of behavioral finance. Chapter 13: Multifaceted Communication (Swarn Chatterjee and Ron Sages) Section 6: Crisis Events with Severe Consequences Section 6 includes Chapters 14 and 15, and discusses strategies for helping clients who experienced crisis events with severe consequences.
