Success as a day
trader will only come to 10 percent of those who try. It's important to understand why most traders fail so that you can avoid those mistakes. The day traders who lose money in the market are losing because of a failure to either choose the right stocks, manage risk, and find proper entries or follow the rules of a proven strategy. In this book, I will teach you trading techniques that I personally use to profit from the market. Before diving into the trading strategies, we will first build your foundation for success as a trader by discussing the two most important skills you can possess. I like to say that a day trader is two things: a hunter of volatility and a manager of risk. I'll explain how to find predictable volatility and how to manage your risk so you can make money and be right only 50 percent of the time. We turn the tables by putting the odds for success in your favor. By picking up this book, you show dedication to improve your trading. This by itself sets you apart from the majority of beginner traders.

 In the book, I describe the fundamentals of day trading, explain how day trading is different from other styles of trading and investment, and elaborate on important trading strategies that many traders use every day. I've kept the book short so you can actually finish reading it and not get bored by the middle. For beginner traders, this book gives you an understanding of where to start, how to start, what to expect from day trading, and how to develop your strategy. Simply reading this book, however, will not make you a profitable trader.

Profit in trading does not come with reading a book or two or browsing online. It comes with practice, the right tools and software and appropriate ongoing education. Intermediate traders may benefit from the book's extensive overview of some of the classic strategies that the majority of retail traders regularly use with proven success. If you think you are beyond the stage of a novice trader, then you may want to jump ahead and start reading from Chapter 7 for an overview of the most important day trading strategies: Day trading is not gambling or a hobby. You must approach trading very, very seriously. As such, I wake up early, go for a run, take a shower, get dressed, eat breakfast, and fire up my trading station before the markets open in New York. I am awake. I am alert. I am motivated when I sit down and start working on the list of stocks I will watch that day. This morning routine has tremendously helped my mental preparation for coming into the market. Whatever your routine is, starting the morning in a similar fashion will pay invaluable dividends.

The stock market is neither a mythical place beyond human understanding nor a place reserved for people with special genetics. The investors who have made a fortune out of stock market are average people like everyone else except they took their time to understand everything before trying to get in the game. There are many investments in the securities markets beyond stocks. You could invest in bonds and funds like mutual funds and index funds. Investing in IPOs gives you a chance to own a slice of a company and in return, you play your part in providing the company with much-needed resources. The best single thing an investor can do before taking up an investment deal is to conduct a fundamental analysis. Fundamental analysis is the evaluation of a company's financial health with the intention of either solidifying your interest in the venture or finding out any red flag. Each activity is also subject to different regulations depending on how sensitive it is and the country that it is based. One of the trading strategies that many traders have come to love is day trading. This is a process whereby you buy and sell stocks on the same trading day. This is different from other types because the trading activity continues even after the marketing hours have closed. Traders that buy and sell using this method of trading are called day traders. The time allows you to run dozens of trades in a single day or run a single trade. You might decide to buy a stock the first day and then sell it the next day, that is if you realize that selling the same day might not prove profitable. The standard practice is for traders to close trades at the end of the day. Trades usually last a few minutes or seconds. These traders do this because they want to avoid any risks that arise out of price gaps between the closing price on the day of buying the stock and the opening price of the next day. Just like any other day, these traders make quick profits and also quick losses in such a short period of time. The good thing is that day trading gives you a chance to make decisions based on analysis of patterns. Day traders study the general market and the price and volume movement of the stocks. They then use fundamental and technical analysis to keep themselves abreast with the latest news items in order to make the right decisions. With the right decisions come better profits and satisfaction from all you do on the market.
