Academic Paper from the year 2020 in the subject Business economics -
Business Management, Corporate Governance,
grade: 1, Donau-
Universität Krems (Fakultät für Wirtschaft und Globalisierung), language: English,

abstract: The main objective of this paper is to summarize the key insights I obtained during my study trip in San Francisco in 2019. Most of the insights I present here are applicable to everyday business circumstances, regardless of whether one is an entrepreneur,
intrapreneur, manager,
leader or rank-and-file employee. Entrepreneurs establish new businesses in the face of risk and uncertainty by identifying significant opportunities and assembling the resources needed to capitalize on them, with the ultimate aim of achieving profits and growth. Accordingly, the identification and evaluation of opportunities is one of the entrepreneur's most important tasks. Emerging needs can often be identified through an examination of social, technological, and economic trends. To be sure, good opportunities are associated with market needs. Once a clear understanding of the problem not currently addressed by the market has been obtained, ideas must be formed to solve the problem. Investors are particularly drawn to ideas that solve big problems, as they often represent large opportunities. Iterative prototyping and testing in collaboration with users can furnish a better understanding of user needs. A minimum viable product can then be developed and offered to users. This 'Design Thinking' approach helps to clarify the problems faced by key prospective users. In the introduction, the terms entrepreneur, entrepreneurship and design thinking are described. In the following section, the top five key learnings of the study tour are discussed in detail (Section 2). 'From Idea to Enterprise' (Section 2.1) describes the core issues around deciding to pursue an entrepreneurial vision and the characteristics vital to success. 'Launching the Company and Team Building' (Section 2.2) talks about putting together a solid financial plan for the enterprise, including funding strategies. The team building process is described using the case ProjectSHED. 'Diversity in Entrepreneurship' (Section 2.3) discusses challenges faced by female entrepreneurs and the opportunities for mixed-gender founder teams. 'Driving Innovation' (Section 2.4) describes the concept of innovation potential within a company. The last day of the study trip focused on the skill set needed by an entrepreneur (Section 2.5). The essential findings are summarized in the concluding section (Section 3). Lessons Learned from Leading Entrepreneurs iUniverse

LESSONS FROM THE EDGE

HarperCollins Leadership A Dozen Lessons for Entrepreneurs shows how the insights of leading venture capitalists can teach readers to create a unique approach to building a successful business. Through profiles and interviews of figures such as Bill Gurley of Benchmark Capital, Marc Andreessen and Ben Horowitz of Andreessen Horowitz, and Jenny Lee of GGV Capital, Tren Griffin draws out the fundamental lessons from their ideas and experiences.

Entrepreneurs should learn from past successes but also be prepared to break new ground. While there are best practices, there is no single recipe they should follow. By better understanding the views and experiences of a wide range of successful venture capitalists and entrepreneurs, readers can discern which of many possible paths will lead to success. With insight and verve, Griffin argues that innovation and best practices are discovered by the experimentation of entrepreneurs as they establish the evolutionary fitness of their business. The products and services created through this experimentation that have greater fitness survive, and less-fit products and services die. Entrepreneurs have always experimented when creating or altering a business. What is different today is the existence of modern tools and systems that allow experiments to be conducted more cheaply and rapidly than ever before. Griffin shows that listening to what the best venture capitalists have to say is invaluable for entrepreneurs. Their experiences, if studied carefully, teach bedrock methods and guiding principles for approaching business.

How do the really exceptional CEOs get more done in less time than everyone else?

What's their technique for getting their work done while still having the time to spend pursuing hobbies and spending quality time with their friends and family? The truth is that great CEOs know a secret when it comes to time management. Rather than spending a little time on a lot of things, the best CEOs spend most of their time eliminating the single biggest constraint to the growth of their business. Depending on the challenge, they may play one of five different roles - the Learner, Architect, Coach, Engineer or Player - that together form the archetype for great leadership. This insight isn't just some theory either; it's derived directly from talking with thousands of CEOs running high growth companies. So, do you want to keep working hard? Or would you rather get busy being lazy?

Christian Voss
Hassan Thomas is a 23-year-old entrepreneur from Texas who, over the course of the COVID-19 lockdowns of 2020 and 2021, managed to transform a disappointing senior year of college into a thriving multi-faceted FinTech business called FYI FLI: For Your Information, Financial Literacy & Investing. He did it by spending lockdown in learning mode, building on his newly minted business degree by teaching himself the skills he needed to bring important financial knowledge to others, setting ambitious goals, and keeping his eyes on the prize, even as other young graduates lost hope and momentum during the worst of the global pandemic. During that short period, he founded and funded a nationwide financial literacy education program, built a software app, and launched the FYI FLI podcast. Hassan's story begins in 2019 with a season-ending college football injury and a 2020 remote graduation, and journeys through the incubation of his education enterprise products and his bi-weekly interview podcast. Along the way, he documented lessons from his own experience starting a business from his bedroom and continued his learning journey by chasing the wisdom of his entrepreneurial mentors-some of today's most successful new-economy BIPOC business builders. He invited them to appear on his podcast, drew out their best advice for money-minded young people, and distilled those lessons into easy-to-apply tips, tricks, and encouragement. This knowledge, both Hassan's and that collected from his podcast guests, are compiled into this refreshing and inspirational volume of life lessons-both financial and psychological-that will enrich every young person's wallet and aspirations. As From College to COVID demonstrates, Hassan Thomas isn't your average young entrepreneur. His products are hope, education, and faith, and his customer is you: young people-people of all colors-who want to break the cycle of generational poverty, or simply learn to manage their finances in a way that will promise a lifetime of financial security. "Young people aren't taught financial literacy in school. I had to find the most essential information on my own," says Hassan. "I hope this book of lessons from some of today's most successful entrepreneurs can go some way to closing that gap." His goal, he says, is to become the number-one financial literacy hub in the world through the FYI FLI podcast, website, app, music, and online curriculum. Transform your passion into a profitable business—with the help of the legendary entrepreneur who turned an innovative idea into a $100 million global powerhouse. Judi Sheppard Missett is a fitness icon who, at just three years old, discovered a passion for dance that would eventually fuel a global dance fitness empire.

After an early life spent honing her dancing skills and a career as a professional jazz dancer, Judi had an epiphany: why not combine the art of jazz dancing with the science of exercise to help others achieve a healthier, happier self-image and life? The wildly enthusiastic response from her first 15 students inspired her to launch Jazzercise, Inc., the world's leading dance fitness program with a cumulative $2 billion in global sales. In Building a Business with Beat, Judi reveals for the first time the secrets behind the company's five decades of enormous success. In addition to helping millions of men and women improve their health and well-being through the fun and fitness of dance, Judi has inspired 8,500 franchisees to achieve their dream of owning and running their own business. Now, through powerful personal stories, practical proven-successful advice and insights, Judi shares how you, too, can transform your passion into a profitable business. This inspirational guide will teach you how to:

- Create a successful business by discovering and defining your larger purpose
- Use your unique perspectives and abilities to enhance the lives of others
- Deftly handle everyday obstacles and unplanned events
- Develop an open mindset and embrace innovation and new possibilities
- Inspire your staff to connect to a purpose greater than day-to-day work, and more

Filled with helpful tips, smart strategies, and no-nonsense advice, this book is essential reading for anyone who has ever dreamed of creating a thriving, purpose-driven business. The author is living proof that when you're doing what you love, it may not seem like work at all.

Morgan James Publishing Silicon Valley's longest-serving and most consistently profitable CEO shares lessons from his entrepreneurship, leadership, management, and life experience Ray Zinn founded his semiconductor company without venture capital and ran it for 37 years, 36 of them profitably—an enviable record. He went blind weeks before his company went public, yet he led it for another 20 years. Tough Things First, the distillation of Zinn's astonishing career as CEO of Micrel, is a comprehensive, inspirational head-to-toe training program for entrepreneurs and leaders. Zinn gives you the guidance you need to:

- Find your vision, set your goals, and make them happen
- Build your business like you'd train your body: with heart, soul, mind, and passion • Master the psychological disciplines that will sharpen your focus and drive • Create a corporate culture that engages employees and inspires confidence • Put people first and push them to achieve their personal best • Tackle the tough jobs today—and ensure your success tomorrow Zinn tells you what it takes to succeed in a world where markets are constantly changing, new technologies are emerging, and small startups are going head to head with industry giants. He shows you how to be a good leader and what you can do to make yourself even better. He reveals why discipline is the first and most important step—for the entrepreneur and the organization—and why people are your single most valuable resource. He offers practical, no-nonsense advice on processes and procedures, finances and growth creation, changing markets and new technology. But that's not all. The key to your success, Zinn explains, lies in your mind, your body, your vision, and your heart. This book shows you how to develop these interconnected skills, how to integrate them into your life and work, and how to handle the tough things first. A Story with a Purpose Greenleaf Book Group The bestselling author of How to Become CEO returns with a pithy, smart, and useful collection of wisdom learned by business leaders at their own family dinners. Do you want to get to the top? Do you want to know how to rise above the crowd and become a leader in your field? Then this is the book for you. In How to Get to the Top, bestselling author Jeffrey J. Fox combines his own experience as an extremely successful entrepreneur with lessons learned at the family dinner table by business leaders such as Howard Schultz, CEO of Starbucks; Tom Chappell, founder of Tom's of Maine; Leslie Blodgett, CEO of Bare Escentuals; and George Steinbrenner, principal owner of the New York Yankees. The essential guide on how to get to the top--and stay there--this compelling book contains hard-hitting advice on independence and self-reliance, management dynamics, and problem solving, including: You can't unsour the milk. Speak sweetly: You may have to eat your words. Tip as if you were the tippee. Act like you own the place. You have to know the rules to break them. Never be late.

Always compliment the chef . . . especially at home. Teach your girls to whistle. Spend the company's money as you would your own. Don't teach the quarterback to catch.

The purpose of Good Success is to help readers learn and integrate into their life and career the good lessons learned from bad leaders. Bad leaders drive organizational dysfunction, incarnate indecision, and deplete personal energy and team resolve. Also, bad leaders exhaust resources and hope. But, through Good Success readers gain the knowledge and the lessons to overcome the damage, shape their awareness, and build new courage to navigate beyond the chaos. Good Success enable recovery from the effects of bad leadership, creates the means to achieving self-mastery, brings closure to previous negative circumstances, and so much more. It is possible that those who work for bad leaders have already written-off any chance of benefiting from the chaos that they create. If so,

Good Success helps readers draw a valuable inheritance from the F.E.A.R. (failures, experiences, anxieties, roadblocks) they've seen bad leaders produce.

Independently Published Successful entrepreneur Brian T. Cunningham admits he made 98 percent of the mistakes a new entrepreneur does. But in Never Give Up! Cunningham shows how he persisted, learned, survived, and thrived, and he can lead you, too, toward a rewarding business career. In 1965, he cofounded Electronic Sales Associates (ESA), an organization that specialized in high-speed computer printers, tape drives, minicomputers, and digital data acquisition systems. Four years later, Cunningham became CEO of Computer Entry Systems (CES), an outgrowth of ESA. Marketing products to improve the data entry process, CES grew over twenty years from a few founders to a profitable company located on four continents and competitive with the likes of IBM, NCR, and Burroughs. Never Give Up! discusses a variety of business topics an entrepreneur must consider, including: Formulating a business plan Establishing a board of directors Securing funding Becoming and running a public company Handling mergers Gleaned from personal experiences, the life lessons in this book detail the reality of creating and growing a business and illustrate how success is achieved through hard work and determination. Inspirational in nature, Never Give Up! provides pointers and advice to stimulate successful entrepreneurs on their journey.
