 • Moulage can add realism to a simulated event and allow the participants to visualise a true representation of an injury or medical condition.
 • Moulage can assist the participant in prioritising their plan of treatment.

• Scenarios are designed to work with the physiology and moulage is used to make the students experience more real.
 • Because so much of nursing assessment is based on sensory experiences- what is felt, seen, heard and smelled, increased realism provides the missing link to the story.
