What Lane? Delacorte Books for Young Readers

Varsha Alimchandani is a young female author with unmatched depth and power. The Indian poet's insightful and moving work takes reader on the journey to explore various faces of the human world we encounter at any moment. In addition, this thought-provoking book shows both the power and vulnerability of love, while observing the difference between the love we have been conditioned with and the love we are born to live. Tinged with the heartbreak of a broken home and complexity of society, Spots on the Mirror stands out as a collection to cherish for lifetime. Spots on the Mirror centers around themes of love, loss, vulnerability, misogyny, collective unconscious and bitter truths of humanity. Connect with yourself up close as you go through the journey of this moving poetry.

If you've ever experienced love and all the emotions that it brings in your lifetime, then you've picked up the right book. Love is confusing right? You take one step forward, believing it's right; but the ground crumbles and you realize that it was a wrong decision. What are you supposed to do while standing face to face with love? How do you make the right decisions? What should you do to make love stay? The answers to those questions are definitely not easy to find, because love deals with emotions and that's where everything goes haywire right? Varsha believes that as well. That's why through reading her poetry, which deals with different emotions one can feel when in a state of love, you may get closer to your answer. In this book, Varsha shows that the best way to face love is to be honest with your own self first. Understand yourself, come to peace with yourself, and then you will understand your feelings better and where they take you. Love can be mind-boggling, but that doesn't mean you have to give up - you can start by knowing yourself From the Bottom of Your Heart.

A young girl sat straight-backed on the edge of her chair, chewing a yellow pencil She wiped her table clean with her sleeve, and with reverence, took out five clean sheets of papers. With a smile of joy, she began to write. Visited by the charming Story-Catcher, she writes stories of all kinds ? a boy who finds the eye of a dragon; a girl who finds a letter from her great-grandfather whom she never knew; the Master of Dreams who helps create dreams every night; Coco who is half-deer-half-man; and Ruby who gets a glimpse of the other side of the mirror. Finally, the Story-Catcher himself comes to meet her, with his bundle full of ideas. This enchanting collection of stories is sure to be read again and again and be remembered as a cherished book of childhood tales.

"Simple text and full-color photographs illustrate the land, animals, and people of India"--

Simon and Schuster

This book offers an extensive review of e-waste management in India, the world's third-largest producer of waste from electrical and electronic equipment. With a focus on the evolution of legalframeworks in India and the world, it presents impacts and outcomes; challenges and opportunities; and management strategies and practices to deal with e-waste. First of its kind, the book examines relevant concepts and issues from across 15 disciplines and six areas of policy making and will serve as a comprehensive knowledge base on electronic waste in India. It links key themes to the global context of Sustainable Development Goals and explores the convergence with technological, infrastructural, and social initiatives in e-waste management. A range of topics are discussed, such as resource efficiency policies; circular economy; toxicity; technicalities and complexities of e-waste management including role of the informal sector and need for recognising social and human costs in policy making. The book deals with the role of statistics; legal trends and reforms; linkages with green Agenda 2030 and UN initiatives; implementation of Extended Producer Responsibility (EPR); environmental factors; business prospects; consequences on human health; Life Cycle Impact Assessment; the 'six Rs' (Responsible use, Repair, Refurbish, Recycle, Recover and Reuse); recycling practices and problems, material flow and informal sector in trade value chain; fostering partnership between formal-informal sectors; safe disposal; alternatives to landfilling; role of jurisprudence and regulatory bodies; and education and awareness. It also includes a survey of pan-India initiatives and trajectories of law-driven initiatives for effective e-waste management along with responses from industries and producers. Timely and essential, this volume will be useful to scholars and researchers of environment studies, digital waste management, waste management, development studies, public policy, political ecology, sustainable development, technology and manufacturing, design and instrumentation, environmental and international law, taxation, commerce, electronic industry, economics, business management, metallurgy, and engineering, labour studies, as well as to policymakers, nongovernmental organisations, and interested general readers.

The Basic Little, Brown Books for Young Readers

In this unexpected twist on mythology inspired by Sangam India, reincarnated lovers find themselves bound together, connected to their past by a centuries old tragedy that only one of them remembers. In the ruthless martial empire of Naja, Suri is the crown's unflinching blade. But the princess dreams of a life exploring the lands beyond the borders, unshackled by blood. The king and queen offer her freedom, at a price: marriage to a king she's meant to kill, and the death of Athri, a kingdom her family once nearly destroyed. Her only obstacle lies in the mountains above the Athrian capital of Marai, where a young prophet sees a world struck by catastrophe—a world where a girl lies dead in the temple of the fire god, and the city lies burning below. Centuries later, Suri lives with no recollection of her past lives. Haunted by her family's deaths eighteen years ago, Suri sees the boy bleeding gold on her doormat as an opportunity to unravel the mystery of the car crash that took their lives. But not all gifts are created equal, and the boy soon proves to be more trouble than he's worth, a dangerous link back to a world of gods and wishes. Epigraphia Andhrica Taylor & Francis

"How many kisses do you want tonight?" the animals ask, snuggling critters tight. This adorable counting bedtime book celebrates the special ritual of goodnight kisses. Children and baby animals request from one to a million kisses from their parents when they settle in for the night. The simple, rhyming text makes for a perfect read aloud.

T is for Taj Mahal Penguin

Tender and wise, The Ship We Built is about the bravery it takes to stand up for yourself—even to those you love—and the power of finding someone who treasures you for everything you are. Sometimes I have trouble filling out tests when the name part feels like a test too. . . . When I write letters, I love that you have to read all of my thoughts and stories before I say any name at all. You have to make it to the very end to know. Rowan has too many secrets to write down in the pages of a diary. And if he did, he wouldn't want anyone he knows to read them. He understands who he is and what he likes, but it's not safe for others to find out. Now the kids at school say Rowan's too different to spend time with. He's not the "right kind" of girl, and he's not the "right kind" of boy. His mom ignores him. And at night, his dad hurts him in ways he's not ready to talk about yet. But Rowan discovers another way to share his secrets: letters. Letters he attaches to balloons and releases into the universe, hoping someone new will read them and understand. But when he befriends a classmate who knows what it's like to be lonely and scared, even at home, Rowan realizes that there might already be a person he can trust right by his side. "Incredibly good; by turns raw, sweet, horrifying, tender, and hopeful."—Laurie Halse Anderson, NYT bestselling and award-winning author of Speak and SHOUT
