create a sonic environment that reduces sound and encourages positive emotional and physical responses in a space. Soundscape | ShawContractThe study of soundscape is the subject of acoustic ecology and refers to both the natural acoustic environment — consisting of natural sounds, including animal and sounds from trees, the sounds of water, weather — and environmental sounds created by humans — through musical composition, sound design, and other human activities, including sounds of mechanical origin resulting from use of industrial technology. Designing the Urban Soundscape - The Nature of Cities Sound maps are digital geographical maps that put emphasis on the sonic representation of a specific location. Sound maps are created by associating landmarks (streets in a city, train stations, stores, pathways, factories, oil pumps, etc.) and soundscapes.. The term “soundscape” refers to the sonic environment of a specific locale.
