It is 1977 and James Martin is offered the opportunity to go to

South Africa and run the local subsidiary of James & Brown, the company he has worked for since leaving Zambia. He and his wife, Katrina, relocate to Johannesburg and start a life there amid the undercurrents of civil unrest brought about by the apartheid policies of the government. James seeks out new sales prospects and manages the local parts and service business, while navigating the peculiar world that was South Africa in the 1970s.

He and Katrina do take time to explore as much of South Africa as they can. It is not Zambia, where they had lived once, but it is still Africa and for them it is good to be back.

Within this 333-page guidebook, you will find the knowledge and practical steps upon implementation can help one achieve a natural state of abundance and experience conscious expansion. While other books focus on the "the secret" of the law of attraction, you will learn that there is far more available to you than material possessions and societal status. Inside these pages are revealed tools readily available to you that you may not even be aware of. This book is organized around the Mind, Body, and Spirit-the three spheres of being that need to operate in equilibrium for true knowledge of self, accelerated self betterment and the manifestation of desire. Written from a state of enlightenment reached only after deep meditation and facing life's many hardships, this guidebook presents full details of the metaphysical aspects of the mind and thoughts, the ego and self-identification, presence and creation, mindfulness, the anatomy of fear, chakra energy systems and healing, exercise and well-being, mineral-supplemented diets, along with the benefits of juicing, detoxing, clean eating, and living on a plant-based diet.

I started writing these poems as a way to work through fear, sadness and anger I was carrying with me from my childhood. As I wrote, I began to see how so many of my adult life decisions were made based on protecting that scared lonely little girl. So next I reviewed the men I had chosen to be part of my life, the who, why, when. What a pattern I saw there! Not so good a pattern. So more poems. When I had my two children, I now had the motivation to push further past the fear and stupidity of the earlier parts of my life and see my way through to being able to raise my children differently than I had been raised. Writing these poems brought many tears, some wonderful memories, and a lot of insight into how I direct my future and destiny.

This publication is the outcome of a project begun in 1973 with an intensive survey of the Lasithi plain in Crete; it documents and discusses the history of ancient settlement in this rich valley high up in the Diktaian mountain range. The core of the book is a survey of archaeological evidence for settlement in the Neolithic to Late Roman periods, but the author also extends his work to later periods. The area was exploited by the Venetians in the 15th and 16th centuries as a source of grain, and the author draws on documentary evidence to describe their agricultural practices—many of which have extended into the modern period.

This book examines the lives and writings of important intellectual women, most of whom are known by small circles only and then in a foreign language. This is the first time many of them, including someone as famous (in Austria) as Kaethe Leichter, will see the light of day in English. The work shows how these women negotiated their national and Jewish identities, their intellectual interests and personal lives in the multi-cultural population of Central Europe.
